

EVEN A SUBTLE CHANGE CAN BE MONUMENTAL

2002 PATENT PROGRAM AWARD RECIPIENTS

Soren Abildgaard
Steven Anderson
Dave Arsenaull
Scott Arvin
Davis Augustine
Benoit Belley
Fadi Beyroufi
Jacobo Bibliowitz
Bill Bogan
Marc Bolduc
Martin Boyd
Kurt Chase
John Chen
Raju Chithambaram (5 awards)
Dave Comfort
Robin Dandridge
Ken Davis (4 awards)
John DeAguiar (4 awards)
Steven Dennis
Jean-Luc Dery
Juan Pablo Di Lelle
Scott Ding
Stephane Duchesne
John Dunn (2 awards)
Garrick Evans
Larry Felser (3 awards)
Donald Forbes
Ashok Gadangi
Mike Haley
Damian Hallbauer
Lee Harding
Kevin Hesson
Ken Hill (3 awards)
Gerald Hochenauer
Patrick Hubert
Peter Janson
Fabrice Jaubert
Norbert Jeske
Scott Kohl (2 awards)
Carolyn Kreisel
Jim Kuch
John Lewis
Bo Lipari
Doug Look
Britt Miura
Tim Moore

Scott Morrison
Thad Neal
Tim Nelson
Amit Parghi (3 awards)
Glenn Poorman
Chris Putnam
Bill Roberts
Ryan Rogers
Tomas Rokos
Nikolai Sander (4 awards)
Michiel Schriever
Phillip Scott
Eileen Sinnott
Gary R. Smith (4 awards)
Natarajan Srinivasan
Ruth Steed
Craig Storms
Jirka Strejskal
Attila Szabo
Filippo Tampieri (2 awards)
Akemi Tazaki
Eric Theriault
Dan Thomson (4 awards)
Le Huan Tran
Pierre Tremblay
Stephane Trinh
Thomas Tuerke
Greg Vazzana
Chris Vienneau (2 awards)
Amy Wagreich (2 awards)
John Wallace (2 awards)
Dale Weaver
Mark Webb

One step. And all the incremental steps that led there. If your software invention improves one of our products, you might qualify for a patent. And the Autodesk Patent Program is there to help you do it. You get recognition and stock options for your patent application. And a cash prize if the patent is awarded. Go for it. Click Patent Program in the site index of Infosys.

autodesk

Patent Program